The WWA Annual Banquet was held February 4, 2012 at the Idaho Center in Nampa, Idaho. There was plenty of good food, good friends and good time to be had by all.

Once inside, members wandered around looking at the boats, furnished by Idaho Water Sports, Hell's Canyon Marine and Treasure Valley Marine (Bohnenkamp's). Trucks furnished by Dan Wiebold Ford, Peterson Stamped and Tom Scott Toyota and a very nice Arctic Fox displayed by Nelson's RV. This year, we had a table set up by Blaine & Co, selling insurance.

There were tables loaded with donated items for the raffle and the Silent Auction. Those in attendance were kept busy stuffing raffle tickets or sneaking back to the silent auction table to up the bid. The games kept everyone busy.

The Blessing was said by Clyde Schrader and dinner was served. I did not hear a single complaint about the food. This year the choices were either Montuel Salmon with a mornay sauce or Marinated Tri Tip Steak.

Incoming President Jed Myers took the stage to acknowledge the Past President Brian Oakey. Then, he introduced the Silver Rock award winner, Skip Bailey. This year "Jet Boater of the Year" was awarded to Bob and Becky Hays.

As in the past, Gary and Steven Sparks did an outstanding job with the live auction. There were plenty of very nice items on the live auction.

Elsewhere in this newsletter is a list of businesses and individuals that donated to the success of this banquet. I would like to ask everyone in the WWA to keep these businesses in mind when you go out. When you visit their shop or store, greet them and thank them for their support of our club.

Hats off to the Banquet Committee for a very successful Banquet. Would like to acknowledge the whole committee, but am afraid I would leave someone out.

Every year, we say thank you to the Banquet committee and the contributors, but without the participation of those in attendance, there would not be a successful banquet. So, on behalf of the banquet committee: "Thank You, Everyone, who attended!"

Banquet Re-Cast

By now many of you have rehashed the time spent at the banquet and I hope you enjoyed it as much as I did. I thought the boat displays were exceptional and I particularly enjoyed the race boats that we will see in action during the International Jetboat Races in April. The new boat displays were excellent and it is so impressive to see the innovative features that become standard equipment each year. We have the very best boat builders in the world in our backyard. Although I am not ready to upgrade today, I did see several innovative features that I have or will order for my existing water sled.

I also appreciated the display vehicles that haul the toys around to the various rivers and lakes. That is an upgrade that I will probably make this year and the banquet displays gave me several options to look at. I have always been a GM man but the innovative things out there in Dodge and Ford may cause me to break ranks in my 2012 pickup upgrade.

As with any successful event, there is a host of people that make the WWA Banquet happen. To mention names would undoubtedly leave out someone so I won't even attempt to do that in this writing. There were several who, the week of the banquet, spent several days all day running down items and tying up loose ends. The Saturday morning setup was no less than 40 people with helping hands and smiles putting things in place and organizing for the evening festivities. There were numerous members who volunteered for whatever was needed at the moment.

The nice thing about setting up Saturday morning with such a large group is the work is completed very timely and afterwards there is non-hurried time to look at the displays. I was able to spend an hour looking at the craftsmanship of the boats and talk shop with the vendors. That is fun for me as there was no hurry and ample time to find the answers to equipment questions I have.

As a group, the WWA can't thank the vendors enough for their support of our banquet. I would encourage all members to think of those vendors first when it is time to add equipment, accessories, and features to your favorite watercraft. If possible, trade with those vendors that support the great sport we call river running and jetboating. As you do that, mention that you appreciate the fact they have been avid and, in many cases, longstanding club supporters. It takes all of this to keep the commerce part of this sport running and the access to waterways open for recreation.

Personally, I express my thanks to the members who spent hours in coordinating meetings, procurement, and setup making the banquet a success. I also thank all of those who attended and renewed memberships. We have insured another year of proper funding for the causes that open waterways to us and the rest of the public, fund activities such as weed control on the Salmon, and help the WWA support whitewater activities in the Northwest. You all deserve a great big pat on the back. Now get out there and play on the water. See you there!

Jed Myers,
President

Early season watercraft inspection station intercepts two mussel-fouled boats

The Idaho State Department of Agriculture (ISDA) announced that mandatory watercraft inspection stations are now open in Idaho. The stations are concentrated at the state line and many are open from 7 a.m.-7 p.m., seven days a week.

Idaho has had a watercraft inspection program in place since 2009. More than 100,000 boats have been inspected to date. Thirty eight mussel-fouled boats have been intercepted and decontaminated before they launched into Pacific Northwest waters.

The program aims to inspect boats that are entering the region from mussel-infested states. Two mussel-fouled boats from the Great Lakes were intercepted the first 12 days of station operation on

I-90. This indicates that potentially infested boats are being transported outside of the traditional boating season. This is of concern to the Pacific Northwest states.

“Idaho’s watercraft inspection program underscores the importance of preventing these mussels from becoming established in Idaho’s waters,” said Agriculture Director Celia Gould. All of Idaho’s water bodies have tested negative for these species, but they have been found in waters of other western states, and are causing severe economic and environmental harm in other regions of the country. “We continue to work with our regional partners to prevent these fouled boats from launching in Pacific Northwest waters. Catching two mussel-fouled boats so early in the season is a real wake up call. The more the public is educated about these invaders, the more enthusiastic and vigilant they are in joining efforts to keep them out of the Pacific Northwest.”

GLENN'S FERRY RUN

The Western Whitewater Association hosts the annual Glenn's Ferry Run each year on the Snake River near Glenn's Ferry, Idaho. The event is held on a weekend in mid-March, this year March 17 is the chosen date. Overnight camping will be at Three Island Crossing State Park. We have been told, that due to budget cuts there is a good chance that we will not have water.

Friday night we have a tour of Carmela's winery scheduled. This tour costs $15 a person, which includes a wine glass with their logo on it. If you are interested in attending this, please call Anita Shore 454-1669 or email at ashore2shore@shorenavigation.com by March 12, so we can give them a head count.

This event includes a river run on Saturday, followed by a potluck, with the club furnishing steaks.

The run starts early on Saturday, so most people typically arrive Friday evening.

The launch is at from the Glens Ferry ramp, and the run proceeds up the Snake River to a point between Pilgrim Rapid and Peg Leg Rapid.

This is a popular event. The run is not exceedingly difficult, but there are a couple of rapids that warrant proper respect and due diligence.

Overnight camping will be at Three Island Crossing State Park.

GENERAL MEETING HIGHLIGHTS

The February general membership meeting of the WWA was held February 13, 2012 at Canyon Creek Restaurant in Nampa. The usual minutes and financial report were read and approved. Although not new members, their first time in attendance, Chuck Ceccarelli and his wife were introduced. Also, first time in attendance metal art sold at out banquet.

Jed highlighted the banquet. There were some great race boats on in the many things to be done to make this a Award.

Plans for the Chili Run were discussed.

Bob Hays reported on plans for the Jet every four years and it switches between countries. So this is an honor.

Clyde Schrader, chair of the Glenn's Ferry Run, reported on plans for that event, which will take place March 17. He is looking for leaders.

Jed asked for volunteers to attend an Event Planning Seminar, which will be held March 28th in Boise. Hopefully this seminar will help with plans for the Annual Banquet.

Early season watercraft inspection station intercepts two mussel-fouled boats

If you have launched in a mussel-infested water body in the last 30 days, you must have an inspection before you launch in Idaho. For a complete list of infested waters, see: www.invasivespecies.idaho.gov. Call 1-877-336-8676 to schedule a free inspection.

Boaters should expect inspections! All boaters must stop at the stations. Watercraft inspectors are looking for high-risk boats that have been in quagga mussel- and zebra mussel-impacted waters such as Lake Mead, Lake Havasu and Lake Pleasant.

It is important that boaters arrive in Idaho with a clean, drained and dry watercraft

Zebra mussels and quagga mussels are invasive species. They are European in origin and range in size from microscopic to the size of a fingernail, depending on the life stage. They are prolific breeders and attach themselves to hard and soft surfaces, fouling freshwater ecosystems and clogging intake pipes that draw water from infested waterbodies. They cause significant maintenance challenges for raw-water systems, requiring millions of dollars annually to treat.

ISDA urges all boaters to take the following steps to prevent the introduction of the mussels to Idaho:

- Inspect all exposed surfaces - small mussels feel like sandpaper to the touch
- Wash the hull thoroughly, preferably with hot water
- Remove all plant and animal material
- Drain all water and dry all areas
- Drain and dry the lower outboard unit
- Clean and dry all live wells
- Empty and dry any buckets
- Dispose of all bait in the trash
- Wait five days and keep watercraft dry between launches into different fresh waters

For more information about Idaho's invasive species program go to www.invasivespecies.idaho.gov or call Matt Voile, Noxious Weed and Invasive Species Manager at 208-863-1559.

Chili Run 2012

Chili Run 2012

Wow! What a day! Unlike the Pre-Run, the wind was quiet and the river gods blessed us with a safe day on the river. Nineteen Jet Boats navigated "Suicide Bend", "Grave Yard", "Pump House" and "Ranch House". Once the river rats were all out of their water craft and safely on the beach the event began. Soon after 6 back country kitchens were up and running, marking the beginning of the Western White Water Association's culinary experience of the year. Winners will be announced in the next issue of the Rapids.
